Police Bank

https://www.policebank.com.au/

Police Bank started way back in the early 1960s. A smart group of police officers had the idea of forming a mutual organisation for the benefit of all police.

Today, we keep building on our collective success to find new ways to support members and their families within the police community.

Police Bank is run by members for members. That means we'll do more than any other bank to support you and those you care about. There are no external shareholders to influence the course of our activities.

Profits are returned to Members in the form of better interest rates, products and services.

We're working hard today to protect the financial security and wellbeing of our policing families for tomorrow. We back police sporting teams and events, represent the needs of police through police associations and — through police legacies — support the families of officers who have passed away in the line of duty.

We understand the daily challenges of being a police officer. We do everything we can to make it easy to bank with us. We offer a range of products and services for every stage of life, from savings and transaction accounts to home loans and insurance.

Mag-Lite

https://maglite.com.au/

Mag Instrument's (Maglite®) only factory in Southern California is and always has been. Our entire manufacturing workforce – from product-development engineers to automation specialists to machinists — reports to work there, as it always has. However, we can't make every part, component, and accessory under our roof. When we have to go outside, our strong preference is to procure such parts from a maker that is not only domestic but, if possible, local.

But in this age of trade globalization, it is not always practical for the manufacturer of any product of any complexity to procure all the needed parts and components domestically. In addition to price, there are other and often far more important considerations, like consistent quality and stability in the supply chain. We have even faced situations where no potential domestic supplier was interested in bidding on a part- or component-supply contract. And so it is necessary, from time to time, to go overseas for a part or component, as much as we do not like to do that.

A percentage of our sales will be donated towards organisations that support first responders.

Mission

To support the Emergency Services (EMS) community by:

- Providing premium coffee to EMS personnel from which a donation will be made;

- Encouraging discussion around mental health wellbeing and removing the stigma that still exists around this topic.

Police Health

https://www.policehealth.com.au/

Police Health is a not-for-profit, restricted access private health insurer for the policing community and their extended families. Police Health is open to anyone currently or previously working or volunteering in Australian Police Departments or Police Unions or Associations.

Police Health was created in August 1935 by police employees to assist them and their families. Concerned that existing health provision did not meet their needs, our founders established their own health fund to secure peace of mind knowing that they would be fully supported through sickness and poor health.

Across the last 90 years, the provision of and demand for healthcare has evolved significantly. Nevertheless, our enduring purpose — to deliver a diverse range of high quality, value for money health services for our members and their families — is as true now as it was then.

This commitment to excellence — which saw us launch Emergency Services Health in 2016 — forms an unbroken link with our heritage. It remains central to what we do.

Today, our not-for-profit private health fund covers over 100,000 people nationwide across our two brands — providing true peace of mind and acting as a trusted partner in health and wellbeing.

Fisiocrem

https://www.fisiocrem.com.au/

When we first started fisiocrem in Australia in 2009 we were committed to keeping Australians healthy, active and moving. This mission has guided our decision-making thus far and is a core value of all team members.

Our journey began with the goal of developing a premium topical massage gel that incorporated plant based naturally-derived active ingredients.

Our aim was to produce a non-greasy, pleasant smelling easy-to-apply muscle pain relief gel that would be highly effective. Our ultimate goal was to create an essential pain management solution that every household could benefit from and see fisiocrem as a product that should be keep in every household as part of their first aid kit.

POSCA Hydrate

https://poscahydrate.com/

What is Posca, you ask? The Elixir to Fix Ya!

A revolutionary hydrating drink produced by a growing start-up business which combines ancient Roman wisdom and knowledge with modern flavours to produce a refreshing hydration alternative without the nasties.

The key functional benefits of Posca are:

- Electrolyte replenishment – Restores sodium, potassium, and magnesium lost through sweat to support hydration balance.

- Rapid absorption – Hypotonic formula for faster fluid uptake compared to water alone.
- Sustained energy – Includes carbohydrates to help maintain endurance performance.
- Low in sugar – Avoids heavy sugar loads, preventing energy spikes and crashes.
- Refreshing taste - Encourages frequent drinking, supporting hydration levels.

Given the functional benefits of Posca Hydrate (outlined below), we actively look for ways to engage with – and be available to - first responders, shift workers, and other similar industries. This is especially important in a landscape dominated by high-caffeine, high-sugar drinks that give a quick boost but can have longer-term downsides.
